#PGM 3 National Technology Day

Technology is an integral part of our lives, and considering its contribution to economic growth, the celebration of National Technology Day seems fairly obvious and significant. National Technology Day marked every year on 11 May, the day reminds of the India's technological advances. The day celebrates not only scientists and engineers, but anyone who is involved with ideating, innovating, and promoting the dissemination of knowledge and also ensuring that its benefits reach the grassroots level. To recognize the young scientist, we conducted "National Technology Day" in the Department of Biomedical Engineering by 11th May, 2022. This program highlights the significance of science in our lives, advanced approaches and how young people can consider building a career in the field.
